Sustainable Philosophy

The ultimate goal of the portfolio is to support more inclusive social and economic development and more sustainable environmental and business practices, whilst generating strong and consistent investment returns. The portfolio will aim to achieve this by investing in a diversified range of funds which include themes such as renewable energy, financial inclusion, education, social housing, climate change action, sustainable waste management and renewable material production.

Investment highlights

May was shaped by resilient markets as an uneasy ceasefire in the Middle East helped calm investor nerves. Hopes of a deal to end the conflict pushed oil prices lower, easing stagflation concerns and supporting risk assets. Strong earnings, particularly in technology, lifted global equities, with the S&P 500 reaching new highs. European and UK markets also advanced, while Asian equities were more mixed given the region's greater exposure to disruption in the Strait of Hormuz.

The month also brought political uncertainty in the UK, where Labour's local election losses raised questions over Sir Keir Starmer's leadership and contributed to gilt market volatility. In the US, Kevin Warsh was sworn in as the new Federal Reserve Chair, while President Donald Trump's visit to China kept attention on global economic relations between the world's two largest economies.

Overall, May showed markets' willingness to look past geopolitical risks and focus on resilient earnings. Although elevated bond yields and inflation remain challenges, the broader tone was supported by solid and broadening corporate earnings growth.
